

Question 3

Describe the humanities lab

Answer

Based on the provided context, the Humanities Lab at Lund University is a research center that has been involved in various projects and collaborations. Here's a description of the lab based on the provided information:

The Humanities Lab at Lund University is a research center that has been involved in several projects and collaborations, including the CLARIN Knowledge Center (Researcher: Johan Frid, Research: The CLARIN Knowledge Center of Lund University Humanities Lab). The lab has also been involved in research collaborations with Swe-Clarín (Researcher: Johan Frid, Research: Swe-Clarín research collaborations at the Humanities Lab, Lund University).

The lab has published annual reports, which provide information on the research activities and projects undertaken by the lab. These reports are authored by various researchers, including Marianne Gullberg, Victoria Johansson, and Frida Splendido (Researcher: Marianne Gullberg, Victoria Johansson, Frida Splendido, Research: Lund University Humanities Lab Annual Report 2023).

The lab has also been involved in research projects related to the humanities, such as the valorization of humanities knowledge (Researcher: Sverker Sörlin, Linnea Hanell, Linus Salö, Research: Valorization of humanities knowledge). Additionally, the lab has been involved in research projects related to medical humanities (Researcher: Margareta Troein, Susanne Lundin, Research: Humanities for medical students? A qualitative study of a medical humanities curriculum in a medical school program).

Overall, the Humanities Lab at Lund University appears to be a research center that is involved in various projects and collaborations related to the humanities, including the valorization of humanities knowledge, medical humanities, and the development of mobile applications for citizen participation.